To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing this letter on behalf of Miranda Palmer. Miranda has been a student of mine over the last three years in American Studies, Psychology, and Sociology. In each of these classes, Miranda performed very well academically and was an asset to class. Miranda also frequently participated in class discussions, and as such, was a role model to her peers.

In addition to her strong academic performance, Miranda is quite busy outside of the classroom. She performs with and teaches at a local dance studio, and is extremely involved with the school's FBLA club. She also works at the school store (Ram's Café) and is currently participating in a senior internship program. Her numerous and varied activities all demonstrate a high level of maturity, dedication, and work ethic.

Miranda is planning to attend a four-year college, and I am sure that she will be successful. Please consider Miranda for scholarship opportunities that may be available, as I am sure that she will make the most of the opportunities afforded to her.

Best Regards,

Amy M. Brown
